TOPOL REGULAR, SENTENCE CASE

Denim city is an innovation campus founded by house of denim foundation with the mission to connect and inspire our stakeholders, to bring our industry towards a brighter blue. Everything we do is geared to making denim dryer, cleaner and smarter. It is only natural then, that education is one of our core activities. House of denim is an independent, nonprofit industry organization that conceives and initiates collaborative projects to connect and inspire key stake holders in the denim industry.

Since our opening in April 2015, we have given numerous ad hoc industry training sessions to retail, wholesale and brand teams about a variety of industry related topics, ranging from denim basics to sustainability and laundry. With a growing importance on differentiation and innovation, all functional departments need a higher level of knowledge. Many companies have asked us to offer ongoing professional education for their teams.

Based on our experience with Jean School and requests from partner brands, we have decided to develop a larger, more structured program of training and education modules, called Denim City Academy.

The Academy will offer a variety of indepth courses developed for specific professional audiences, from junior level to professional expert level.

Together with our co-founders and partners, we have developed several course modules, with which a tailor-made course can be created, at varying levels and standards.

All courses and workshops are hands-on and interactive, making full use of Denim Citys unique facilities Workshop, Archive with its collection of iconic garments from various eras and brands, Institute and Blue Lab our in-house sustainable laundry facility.
